

From the Hand of Ahmaergo—

I am very sorry that we have failed you Lord Hæmathar. You should not have been surprised by the revelations of the emissaries of the ZhenArim.

The litany of what we now know—

The Eye you hold is one of Three which belong to the Stone.

The Eye which should have been yours has been taken from N'everember's get by Manshoon to Kblat Towers. We currently seek to capture a ZhenArim lieutenant and take possession of one of the pass-amulets which would allow us access to the Towers. Unfortunately, Manshoon's agents are well-trained and have either evaded our attempts or destroyed their amulets before we could secure them. Through N'ihiloor's enhanced interrogations, however, we have ascertained blueprints for the Towers which will prove essential when it comes to time to take that which by right belongs to you.

The disposition of the Final Eye is uncertain to us at this time.

The gnome Dalakhar was an agent of Lord N'everember, seeking to reclaim N'everember's Enigma, which you had by rights taken from our former Open Lord.

The Enigma is, in fact, the Stone of Golorr. I have agents en route to Candlekeep to delve deeper into its secrets. The Stone once belonged to the Abolothic Sovereignty, and was reputedly stolen from the Vaults of the Floating City of Hæiphu by Mask, the Lord of Shadows. As a Hæiphuan Artifact, it is likely that the Stone predates the creation of Toril itself, granting it, within the circles of mysticism, a position of primacy. Its true powers, and thus the reason why N'everember sought to blind it, are unclear to us, but from a position of primacy it would be capable of feats impossible to duplicate even by Mystara herself in this Age.
